Dissemination of Vision, Mission, CO, PO, PEO and PSO among students:

Introduction: Effective dissemination of Course Outcomes (CO), Program Outcomes (PO), Program Educational Objectives (PEO), and Program Specific Outcomes (PSO) to students is crucial for ensuring that they understand the objectives and expectations of their academic programs. This process helps in aligning student learning with institutional goals and enhances the overall academic experience.

Methods of Dissemination:

1. Classroom Introduction: Faculty members introduce CO, PO, PEO, and PSO at the beginning of each semester, explaining their significance in shaping students' academic and professional growth.
2. Syllabus and Course Materials: The CO, PO, PEO, and PSO are embedded in course syllabi, lab manuals, and study materials to provide continuous reinforcement.
3. Departmental and Institutional Websites: A dedicated section on the institutional website ensures easy access to these outcomes for students at any time.
4. Notice Boards: Printed versions of CO, PO, PEO, and PSO are displayed on department notice boards for reference.
5. Assessment and Feedback Mechanisms: Periodic assessments, surveys, and feedback sessions help evaluate students' awareness and understanding of these outcomes.

Impact on Students:

- Encourages goal-oriented learning and skill development.
- Enhances employability by aligning educational objectives with industry requirements.
- Promotes self-assessment and continuous improvement.

Conclusion: A structured approach to disseminating CO, PO, PEO, and PSO ensures that students remain informed and engaged in their academic journey. Institutions should continuously refine their dissemination strategies to maximize student understanding and achievement of these outcomes.
